*The Card Verification Value (or Cardmember ID) is a three-digit number in the signature space on the back of Visa, MasterCard, and Discover cards. (The CVV2 number is always the last group of numbers in the signature space on the back.) It is a four-digit number on the front of American Express cards. It is printed (flat), not embossed like the card number. Collecting this number ensures that the customer has the card in their possession.
